Executive Summary

The Integrated Training for Surveillance Officers in Nigeria (ITSON) was successfully implemented across Nasarawa, Ebonyi, Sokoto, and the FCT between November 2024 and April 2025. This 12-week program involved three workshops and two fieldwork components. 168 participants completed the training, mentorship was provided, and knowledge and skill improvements were recorded, particularly in Sokoto and Ebonyi.

The Integrated Training for Surveillance Officers in Nigeria (ITSON) is a nationwide initiative of the NCDC, designed to strengthen public health surveillance and outbreak response at the Local Government Area (LGA) level. The training harmonizes content from multiple vertical programs into a unified, multi-phase training structure consisting of:

- Workshop 1: Core concepts in public health surveillance
- Fieldwork 1: Supervised application of knowledge in real-world settings
- Workshop 2: Advanced outbreak response and risk communication
- Fieldwork 2: Independent application and field mentorship
- Workshop 3: Final review, assessments, and graduation

Ebonyi	31	20	11
Sokoto	51	40	11
FCT	60	39	21

Table 1: Distribution of ITSON Phase 2 Participants

Objectives

- Equip DSNOs and surveillance focal points with harmonized skills in IDSR, mSERs, and outbreak investigation
- Build the capacity for data quality assurance, field reporting, and epidemic response
- Establish a mentorship-driven system of peer learning at the LGA level

- Transition states fully to electronic reporting
- Improve timeliness, completeness, and quality of surveillance data

Each state's rollout followed the 3-workshop, 2-fieldwork model over a 12-week period. Classroom-based lectures, breakout sessions, and role-play

- Field-level application under the supervision of mentors (1:3 ratio)
- Daily quizzes, pre- and post-tests
- LGA project development, review, and presentation

Participants were drawn from all LGAs in the participating states and included DSNOs, Assistant DSNOs, Laboratory focal persons, and selected environmental and veterinary officers.

Program Structure

Workshop 1 (Classroom Training)

Objective: Introduce participants to foundational knowledge in public health surveillance and field epidemiology.

Key Focus Areas:

• Introduction to IDSR and priority diseases

- Role of laboratory in disease surveillance
- SORMAS and mSERs introduction
- Data collection, analysis, and interpretation
- Outbreak investigation steps
- Case studies (e.g., measles)

Achievements:

- 100% attendance in all four states
- High engagement and interaction
- Significant knowledge gains (avg. improvement 33–36%)

Challenges:

- Venue/environmental issues in Ebonyi (e.g., mold)
- Logistical limitations in Sokoto (food quality, limited budget for wider participant inclusion)
- IDSR materials were sometimes insufficient or inconsistently printed

Fieldwork 1 (Supervised Application in LGA Settings)

Objective: Translate theory into real-world practice under the supervision of trained mentors.

Activities Conducted:

- On-site visits to health facilities
- Active case search and verification
- Surveillance data entry and reporting
- Analysis of IDSR reporting timeliness and completeness
- Health facility focal person engagement

Mentorship Structure:

 Mentees were paired with mentors drawn from NFELTP alumni, WHO staff, and state experts • Each mentor supervised 3–5 mentees

Outcomes:

- Increased confidence in outbreak response procedures
- Timely data entry and reporting improved across LGAs
- Facilities began regular IDSR data audits and updates

Mentorship Evaluation:

- Mentees rated mentors highly on clarity, patience, and hands-on support
- Mentors observed increased competence in practical reporting and analysis
- Some mentors recommended extended mentorship for new ADSNOs

Workshop 2 (Advanced Surveillance & Response)

Objective: Deepen technical expertise, introduce real-time surveillance tools, and enhance outbreak investigation skills.

Modules Delivered:

- Monitoring and Evaluation in Surveillance
- Emergency Operations Centre (EOC) coordination
- Risk Communication and Community Engagement
- Practical data visualization and reporting
- In-depth case studies and simulation exercises

Highlights:

- Hands-on SORMAS simulations conducted in Sokoto and FCT
- Peer-led presentations on lessons from Fieldwork 1
- Introduction to dashboards and feedback mechanisms

Lessons Learned:

 Participants showed stronger performance in interpreting epidemic curves and data visualization

- Peer learning boosted confidence and retention
- Time management was tighter and required stricter facilitation discipline

Fieldwork 2 (Advanced Supervision & Evaluation Phase)

Objective: Apply advanced tools in real field conditions and prepare for final evaluation.

Activities:

- Conducted full outbreak simulation exercises
- Performed supportive supervision at HF level
- Deployed customized feedback templates for facility-level reports
- Built local dashboards for IDSR completeness tracking

Mentorship Insights:

- Mentors documented mentees who could lead future trainings
- Mentees conducted mini trainings for HF focal points
- Structured observation checklists improved mentor consistency

Challenges:

- Some mentees lacked transportation for field activities
- Data access restrictions in some LGAs slowed reporting

Workshop 3 (Capstone & Graduation)

Objective: Review full training cycle, assess impact, and prepare participants for sustained implementation.

Activities:

- Post-test evaluation and impact assessment
- Presentation of final projects and LGA reports
- Panel discussion with State Epidemiologists and WHO
- Award of certificates and recognition of outstanding performance

Achievements:

- Over 90% of participants scored above 70% in final assessments
- Top-performing mentees were identified as future facilitators
- LGA surveillance plans were submitted by each participant

Overall Outcomes Across States

Recommendations

- Sustain mentorship support through a quarterly check-in and WhatsApp/Telegram support groups
- Scale training to other LGAs and states
- Ensure adequate logistics planning for venue, food, and materials
- Develop refresher micro-courses online for continued learning
- Institutionalize mentorship in SMOH HR policies for surveillance roles

Conclusion

The ITSON program has the potential to return measurable improvements in Nigeria's frontline surveillance capacity. Through a structured blend of classroom teaching and real-world field engagement, participants have gained critical skills to identify, analyse, and respond to public health threats. The mentorship model proved highly effective and should be adopted as a best practice for capacity building at the LGA level.

Background

The Nigeria Centre for Disease Control and Prevention (NCDC) coordinated the development of the Integrated Training of Surveillance Officers in Nigeria (ITSON). The purpose of ITSON is to build a strong frontline public health work force at sub-national level as a competency-based field epidemiology training to improve surveillance and response to priority diseases, which is global best practice in disease surveillance training.

This is a program developed through multiple stakeholders and Partners' participation targeting frontline workers primarily at the Local Government Area (LGA) level with the aim of improving the sensitivity of existing systems/surveillance infrastructure. Thereby improving the country's surveillance system for priority diseases, among the general population and improving capacity of frontline surveillance officers.

ITSON as designed provides an avenue for assessing and addressing relevant knowledge and skill gaps in public health threats detection, control, analyses, and interpretation of IDSR data for action. The training provides guidance and recommendations on best practices for surveillance officers in Nigeria. It is primarily intended for State and LGA level surveillance officers, and by extension all those involved with surveillance activities at sub-national levels.

ITSON employs a harmonized training programme of SORMAS and IDSR training modules. Maiden rollout commenced with the establishment of a pool of master trainers at the national level in 2021 and followed by a Training-of-Trainers at the regional level. These individuals served as facilitators at the state level cascade of this training to 26 states in the country (Phase 1-22 states & Phase 2-4 states). The ITSON Phase 2 state level training held between the $3^{\rm rd}$ of November 2025 and $18^{\rm th}$ April 2025 across 4 states in Nigeria.

Objectives

1. To deliver a harmonised epidemiological training package that addresses all training needs of LGA surveillance staff

- 2. To provide surveillance officers with knowledge and skills required for a functional disease surveillance system such that public health threats are detected promptly for action.
- 3. To build capacity of disease surveillance officers on analyses and interpretation of IDSR data for action
- 4. To improve trainees' knowledge on investigation, response and reporting of outbreaks
- 5. To improve trainees' capacity on supportive supervision, monitoring, evaluation, and feedback
- 6. To improve frontline officers' capacity to train health facility focal persons on reporting functions

ITSON Curriculum

The ITSON programme is a 12-week training made up of three didactic workshops consisting of three classroom components and two on-the-job training sessions which is the field component of the training. The first two workshops were highly interactive and focused on learning and practicing real-life methods for basic disease surveillance and detection. Upon completing each workshop, participants return to their jobs to complete two job-related field projects. The third workshop concludes the program with few topics taught, participants' final presentations and the awarding of certificates, and the graduation ceremony.

Classroom Component

Workshop One introduces the participants to principles of disease surveillance IDSR Module 1 - 4 (Reporting, Analysis, Interpretation, Summarizing and sharing data, Monitoring and Evaluation) and Case investigation. All topics in the workshop are intended to provide skills and knowledge that will enable the participants to complete their field projects, and ultimately, to perform better in their jobs.

Workshop Two begins with participants' sharing reports of their field projects. During the classroom session of the workshop, participants learn and practice outbreak investigation, outbreak response, problem analysis, and presentation skills.

The learning objectives of Workshop Two are for the participants to be able to:

- Assist on an outbreak response team
- Partner effectively with the laboratory during outbreak investigations
- Analyse the cause of a data quality problem
- Prepare oral and written communications for a public health decision-maker
- Deliver an oral presentation to a technical audience

Workshop three closes out the training program and it focused on the trainee's presentations from their field assignments. Furthermore, participants also had classroom sessions to cover topics on Contact tracing, One-health, Event-based Surveillance, Community-based surveillance, Infection Prevention and Control and Introduction to the use of Excel. This workshop and the entire training program concludes with a graduation ceremony for the trainees contingent upon fulfilling mandatory attendance requirements.

Hands-on/Fieldwork Component

ITSON is intended to be job-relevant and action-based, with participants immediately applying their new knowledge and skills in their work setting. The ADSNO/DSNOs from participating LGAs in the ITSON training were expected to work as a team to complete the required field projects.

Field Work 1: Following Workshop one, participants were expected to:

- 1. Conduct a data quality audit. This audit must include a site visit to at least 3 locations, using a data quality audit tool that has been customized for the local setting.
- 2. Collect weekly surveillance data for at least 3 weeks (ideally, since the beginning of the year) and compile the data into a Weekly Surveillance Summary Report, using the Weekly Surveillance Report template provided.

Field Work 2: After Workshop two, participants were expected to participate in and prepare reports for two of the following:

- 1. Case investigation
- 2. Outbreak investigation (or logbook of outbreaks and rumours, if used in a country)
- 3. Expanded Weekly Surveillance Summary Report (strongly recommended as one of the two projects)
- 4. Analysis of surveillance quality problem and report of recommended improvements.

Project States

The REDISSE project approved the rollout of ITSON program in 25 states, however due to delay in commencement of the training and some internal issues within some states, the training was successfully completed in 22 although it commenced 23 states. These states cut across four geopolitical zones in the country namely, the North-east zone (Adamawa, Bauchi, Borno, Gombe, Taraba and Yobe states), the North-west zone (Kaduna, Kano, Katsina, Kebbi, and Zamfara states), the South-south zone (Akwa Ibom, Bayelsa, Cross River, Delta, Edo, and Rivers states) and the South-west zone (Ekiti, Lagos, Ogun, Ondo, Osun, and Oyo states).

In September 2024, the World Health Organisation provided funding for the conduct of ITSON trainings in 4 states – FCT, Nasarawa, Ebonyi and Sokoto states.

Training Materials

A full complement of training materials (Participants guide and Facilitators guide) was produced to guide facilitators, mentors and participants through the training. The documents and materials for the training include

- 1. Integrated Disease Surveillance and Response (IDSR) Technical Guidelines-3rd Edition
- 2. International Health Regulations (2005), third edition, WHO 2016
- 3. Bespoke training lessons for integrated training for surveillance officers in Nigeria (ITSON) from the FETP curriculum
- 4. Introduction to Excel
- 5. The Facilitator's Guide

- 6. Participant's Manual
- 7. Mentor's Guide
- 8. Laptops

Expected impact of the training are as follows:

- Regular review of timeliness and completeness of surveillance reports from reporting sources
- Increased frequency of site visits, data quality audits, and feedback to reporting sites.
- Regular analysis of surveillance data
- Improved reporting to next level
- Better use of data for public health decision-making
- Comprehensive case report and outbreak investigations of priority conditions

Methodology

National Training of Master Trainers

A total of sixty (60) master trainers were trained at the National Training of Master trainers who were responsible for cascading the training at regional level. A pool of Subject Matter Experts (SMEs) drawn from NCDC, FMOH, FMARD, FMEnv, REDISSE, The Military and Partners such as WHO, UMB and AFENET.

Regional Training of Trainers

Following the National training of Master trainers, a regional training of trainers was conducted across the six geopolitical zones of the country where 8 persons were trained per state to serve as facilitators in their respective states.

A total of 296 persons were trained across the 6 geopolitical zones. Participants included State Epidemiologists, State DSNOs, State Laboratory Focal Persons, Academia, NFELTP graduates and community physicians.

Approach

An implementation workplan was developed at the start of this project after consultation with the states on their availability. There was good compliance to the workplan by participating states despite a few adjustments that had to be made to the workplan.

Participants

Participants consisted of the LGA Disease Surveillance and Notification Officer (DSNO), the Assistant Disease Surveillance and Notification (ADSNO) from all LGAs in the participating states, selected Area Veterinary and environmental officers, the laboratory focal person, surveillance support officer and data clerks of the states. Total participants include:

- 2 DSNOs per LGA X 4 states
- 1 Veterinary officer per state X 4 states
- 1 Environmental health officer X 4 states
- 1 Laboratory focal person X 4 states
- 1 Surveillance support officer X 4 states

Facilitators

The facilitators for each state training comprised of state level facilitators, national facilitators and WHO state facilitators. State level and WHO facilitators were selected from the facilitators trained during the regional level training for each state while the national facilitators were selected from the pool of master trainers at the national level. A total of 8 state level facilitators, 2 WHO staff, and 2 national level facilitators per state supported the training when available. To preserve the quality of the program, the facilitators especially the state level facilitators must have attended the regional ToT. WHO state office staff in implementing states provided an oversight function with regards to account records and monitoring of the activity. Facilitation of the training was the responsibility of the state level facilitators while the national facilitators were deployed to provide support when needed.

Mentors

Mentors were drawn from the pool of graduates of the FELTP program within the states who were available to mentor during the period of this program. In a situation where there were not enough NFELTP graduates within the state to serve as mentors, community health physicians were considered. The number of mentors assigned per state were dependent on the number of LGAs within the state. Mentors were assigned based on a ratio 1 mentor:3 LGAs. Hence a mentor the maximum number of mentees per mentor was six mentees. For this training, a total of 18 mentors were engaged across 4 states.

Coordination Structure

National Coordinating Unit

A Coordinating Unit was set up at the onset of the program to coordinate all areas of the program implementation. Decisions pertaining to the program were made at this level and other high-level communications were done via this unit. This unit also oversaw the actions of operational team.

Operational Support Team

The operational support team comprising of 4 persons was set up to provide support to all areas of the programme operations before, during after each deployment which included:

- Development and sharing of pre and post-tests links.
- Communicating with state leads on training dates, venues,
- Sharing of relevant training documents with facilitators
- Organize meetings with team leads prior to every deployment.
- Organize checkup meetings with mentors.
- Verify database of participants, mentors, and facilitators
- Collate reports and retirements after each deployment.
- Resolve challenges encountered during deployments and during program operations.
- Communicating with the WHO focal persons
- Weekly progress meetings with operational team members
- Coordinate the deployment of laptops to states.

National Team Leads

The national team leads assigned to support every state deployment were responsible for the following:

- To follow up with the State Epidemiologists (SE) to that state trainees were informed about the training.
- To retrieve list of state facilitators available for the training from the SE and verify that all attended the zonal training.
- To retrieve and verify list of participants from the SE.
- To review and finalize training agenda with the SE.

- To follow up with SE for confirmation of delivery of training manuals and mentors guide
- To confirm availability of mentors and revert to central coordinating unit/ operational team on or before commencement of Workshop One
- To share list of mentors with SE
- To ensure daily quiz is done.
- Share training reports with Operational team
- Follow up with mentors in state on their assigned tasks.

State Team

The state team leads who were the state epidemiologists were responsible for the supervision of the deployment in their respective states. Their responsibilities were:

- To ensure that all participants are duly informed about the training.
- To compile list of state facilitators (those that attended the zonal training) and participants following confirmation and share with the national Team Leads
- To assign topics to state facilitators
- To inform state facilitators and participants of training dates and venue
- To create a training and mentorship WhatsApp platform for state facilitators and mentors

Mentorship

Mentorship was a critical part of this program, and a system was set up to continuously engage with mentors to ensure that mentorship was optimal and address the challenges they faced while providing mentorship. These included:

Curriculum/Implementation Review

Curriculum/Implementation review meeting was conducted at the start of the program implementation. This served as a means for the entire team and other subject-matter expert to evaluate the entire training process and make necessary adjustments where necessary for the second iteration of the ITSON rollout in Nigeria.

Discussion

Integrated Training for Surveillance Officers in Nigeria – Phase 2 ITSON rollout was successfully conducted in 4 states. The participant profile comprised of key subnational stakeholders in the IDSR structure in Nigeria. This includes state officials; DSNOs (disease surveillance and notification officers), Veterinary officers and Environmental health officers at LGA level in participating states of the federation.

With the conclusion of this phase, the national coordinating unit achieved the objectives set at the conception of the project in a manner worthy of commendation. The successful deployment of an all-encompassing training manual and facilitator's guide has ensured that stakeholders in the disease surveillance infrastructure across Nigeria will always have a handy reference document.

The field component of the ITSON curriculum as designed by the coordinating unit with training participants being supervised by graduates of Nigeria's elite field epidemiology fellowship was a masterstroke. This provided these sentinels of disease surveillance with opportunity to receive direct mentorship from some of the country's finest epidemiologists during the training and beyond. The relationships fostered by this approach will undoubtedly result in better outcomes for the country.

In addition to fostering beneficial relationships within participating states, the field component also exposed participants to the process of collection, collation, summarization, analyses, and interpretation of surveillance data under the pupillage of some of Nigeria's finest epidemiological minds. As evidenced by the presentations at the end of fieldworks 1 & 2: participants are now equipped to extract insights from data collected within their areas of responsibility (AOR) and better positioned to educate other stakeholders on the importance of accurate data reporting, leveraging peculiar systemic advantages, sharing lessons and best practices across focal points for better outcomes.

Having been mentored themselves by more qualified colleagues in epidemiology, it can be surmised that participants, because of this training, are now better able to effectively discharge their duties in the areas of supportive supervision of facilities within their AOR; monitoring and evaluation of public health and social interventions as well as provision of feedback to reporting sites.

The ITSON curriculum has modules dedicated to disease outbreak investigation, response, and reporting. A discernible improvement in the timely identification, mobilization of resources, stakeholders, and notification of potential incidents of public health significance as well as implementation of proactive mitigation measures will be good indicators to monitor as part of post-rollout evaluation.

Participants trained are better equipped to detect and respond to public health emergencies through a one health approach within their LGAs and states. Relationships that are critical to disease surveillance were built among trainees and the importance of collaboration in disease surveillance was greatly emphasized in this training.

Basic data analysis skills were built among the trainees especially with the introduction of the excel module to the training.

The engagement of mentors that are also graduates of the FELTP program to support the trainees during the programme was a laudable practice. Trainees had one-on-one support during the period of the training, and it served as an opportunity to further build capacity and address challenges that are pertinent to the trainees.

Recommendations

- The ITSON state level training should be extended to other states especially the states within the North-central and South-eastern geopolitical zones of the country.
- Future trainings should include more participants from the animal and environmental health sector, one of each per LGA will be adequate.
- There is need for a follow-up course on the use of excel and general use of computer training is needed for the trainees as most are not computer literate. This will ensure the optimal use of the computers given.

Challenges

- Delayed payment of facilitators, trainees, and mentors
- Delayed deployment of laptops to states

Conclusion

The rollout of ITSON in the 4 states was successful.
